

RESTORATIVE CONFERENCE

REQUIRES

a referral from
Juvenile Probation, a School, or the
Violence Prevention
Partnership

This restorative program provides individual case management for referred youth; which includes individual meetings with youth as often as needed. Youth learn to take accountability for their actions, develop empathy and remorse for those they impacted, and prepare for a face-to-face meeting with impacted parties. Similar meetings are held with those impacted to help them prepare to share how they've been affected and consider what the youth can do to promote healing and make things as right as possible. The Restorative Resources staff facilitated conference is a structured dialogue intended to provide an opportunity for the one who caused harm, the impacted parties, and stakeholders to safely address needs and harms caused during a specific incident. All voices are heard in the process. A Restorative Action Plan is collectively created by all participants. The plan is meant to repair harms caused and prevent future harms. The youth is monitored to ensure completion of the plan.
